

MIKE GALLAGHER

U.S. Congressman, WI 8th District

"This is an outstanding program that fosters a spirit of leaving our country better than how we inherited it through public service. It's a great way for students in Wisconsin to understand their role in this incredible experiment of self-government, and get them involved with their elected representatives."

GWEN MOORE

U.S. Congresswoman, WI 4th District

"The Washington Seminar provides students with the opportunity to see the inner workings of the government, and their firsthand experience can encourage them to serve in their communities."

Washington Seminar students Joseph Lorenzi (UW-Stevens Point) and Marcella Jalbut (UW-Stout) listen to New York Times Washington Bureau Chief Elisabeth Bumiller.

Study Policy, Connect with Policymakers

The Washington Seminar, led by UW faculty, provides an insider's perspective on policy-making and access to congressional and executive leaders, lobbyists, and other policy influencers. A unique opportunity for students thinking about an internship or career in Washington, D.C.

RON JOHNSON

U.S. Senator, Wisconsin

"The words of John F. Kennedy, 'Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country,' have never been more true, and this program seeks to engage students to be the solution."

TAMMY BALDWIN

U.S. Senator, Wisconsin

"Our democracy depends on engaged citizens and this exceptional program creates an opportunity for students to learn about how public service and government can make a difference."
